

J. Training and Development Policy Statement

provision Catering Europe Limited places a great deal of emphasis upon training at a time when cost savings often take priority. Our philosophy is to invest resources, time, expertise, and energy into creating an environment in which team members will wish to develop existing and new skills.

All new team-members (employees and assessors) will receive a planned, systematic induction with further training to bring them to an effective standard of achievement in the shortest possible time. Training and development plans are both relevant and cost effective to both individual and client needs.

Line Management is accountable for on-site training, a process that is complimented with quality support material. Training is an integral part of the working week. Significant benefits are derived from training being carried out when and where it is needed allowing most cost effective use of resources than if the team member were taken away from the workplace. These actions ensure that potential disruption to our client's service is minimised.

Ian Jackson
Director

January 2011